or Irish Catholics object to public schools in Manitoba? It is because of this—An Irishman may not like England very much —but he doesn't want his child to grow up a Frenchman.

Mr. McCarthy read extracts from Mr.
Wade's pamphlet on the Manitoba School question and quoted the utterance of Mr.
O'Donohue, an Irish Catholic of Winnipeg, to prove the utter inefficiency of the Manitoba Separate Schools. Children educated in those schools were doomed to grow up in ignorance of British institutions, and Mr. Donohue says that although the taxes granted to the Separate Schools were ample to meet all requirements, seldom could he find in them a teacher that could speak English. He further found that only twenty five per cent of the French youth could write their own names, while seventy five per cent of the public school youths can both read and write.

There were 97 Separate Schools in Manitoba when abolished, all but forty of these have accepted the public school money and adopted the system.

The Archbishop of St. Boniface had stated the issue plainly at Ottawa last Sunday. This Separate School question, said the Archbishop, was not only a religious and a political question, but a national one as well—the future of the French race is involved in the question. Mr. McCarthy said that if Separate Schools were established in Manitoba the 10,000 French of the Province would soon increase to 40,000.
Look at Quebec. By Wolfe's victory on the Plains of Abraham, Quebec was made a British Province. But go to Quebec today and English is practically a dead language, and the Province is more French than France itself.

With public schools in Manitoba we can make the half breeds there British, but leave them to the Hierarchy to educate and they will swell and establish a French nationality in the province of Manitoba.

Are we doing a duty to our posterity if we bequeath to them this old trouble to settle. No! we should settle now once and for all, for this is a question that every party matter sinks into absolute insignificance before.

He understood that in Lennox there was not a man with the hardihood to defend Remedial Legislation. The member for Lennox, Mr. Wilson, voted against the bill, but I wish to Heaven he had done more.
When the Remedial Bill was introduced there were 38 Conservative members opposed to it. But when the vote came to be taken on the Bill, the opposition among the Conservatives had lessened. A judgship in Huron, a superintendship of a prison in Kingston, a collectorship of customs in another place and various other considerations and the 38 Conservative opponents of the Remedial Bill had dwindled down to 18 and among them the member for Lennox. When the vote was taken on the six months hoist the government only had a majority of 4 among its own followers the rest of the majority being made up by defections from the Liberal ranks. Well what happened. The Bill was read a second time. We fought it. If we hadn't fought it, it would be law, now for the Government would have passed it to satisfy their Quebec masters. But by the opposition which they were able to give to the bill the Government only succeeded in passing twelve clauses of it. He was sorry to tell them that Mr. Wilson was not among those who fought against the Bill.
Well, the fight went on, and of Tupper's 18 supporters of the Bill but six were left, and some of these six sat up at night to make a quorum to bulldoze it through parliament. He regretted that he had still another circumstance to relate against Mr. Wilson. When Tupper, not satisfied with the arbitrary manner in which he was keeping the House in session all night, demanded that the House should sit on Saturday for the purpose of expediting the passage of the Bill, and Mr. Wilson, as Poster would say, "in a moment of weakness," forgetting that he had voted against the Bill, voted for giving Saturday to the government in order that Sir Charles Tupper might have an extra day to force the Remedial Bill through parliament.

neance sent. It commands the Catholics on pain of terror and eternal damnation to vote for candidates pledged to support the Remedial Bill. In view of this he urged upon the people of Ontario the necessity of sending men to parliament not only pledged to defeat the Remedial Bill, but the Government which introduces such legislation. Don't allow the Hierarchy of Quebec to impose on your brethren in Manitoba, all for the purpose of keeping a party friend in power. Last night he had been among the "Kittley Blues"—men more orange than King William himself.
Some of them, however, thought it a duty to stand by their party. Party feeling seems to have gone mad. If Sir Charles Tupper introduced a motion to annex Canada to the United States some of these same Orangemen would support, because Laurier would do as bad if elected.

After the next election the Governor General would probably send for Laurier to form a government. He may probably threaten us with a Bill. Laurier has told us that he will investigate, and try a policy of conciliation. But let us deal with one thing at a time. If the next government endeavors to pass a Remedial Bill let us down them, too. That is the reason why you should have a Third Party composed of independent men pledged to oppose interference with Manitoba in the next parliament, so they can down any government that attempts to enforce it.

Send men to parliament with a clean record on this question. Men who will denounce and oppose this or any other government who make it part of their policy to establish Separate Schools in Manitoba.
The number of candidates in Ontario supporting the government, but opposed to the Remedial Bill, numbered about 30 or 40.
The Great Stretcher has said that the Remedial Bill is the most important question now before the people. If this Bill is passed it will put back the hand on the dial for years in this country. You can't interfere with Manitoba without causing a rebellion that will injure the rest of the Dominion. If the men like Wilson who voted against the bill at the last session were sincere in their opposition to it not only the bill but the Government who championed it would have gone, because the 7 liberals who helped to make the 18 majority for it would have voted a straight want of confidence in the government.

Surely it would not be such a desperate thing if Laurier would come into power, whether he did right or wrong, he couldn't possibly do worse than the present government. They had five years of Liberal government under McKenzie, and although Tupper has said that during McKenzie's time ruin and disaster was abroad in the land, McKenzie's government was a fairly good one. They came into power during a period of depression. We will have these periods of depression, of good and bad times, no matter what government or policy is in force. Hard times can't be retarded. When the G. T. R. was building times were good; when the money was all spent and the road completed a period of depression ensued. So too, when the C. P. R. was being constructed and money was being spent with a lavish hand, times were prosperous but when it was finished the inevitable hard times came on again.
It isn't free trade or the N. P. that makes good or hard times. Go to England, that God forsaken free trade country, and we find by the words of the chancellor of the exchequer that everything is prosperous, that this year they had the largest surplus that England ever had, that trade is flourishing, exports increasing, and imports coming in, for you can't export unless you import.

Here in Canada we had a falling revenue, poverty stalking abroad in the land, and despite our fiscal policy—the great N.P.— we had a deficit of six millions—because we couldn't afford to buy. Go to England, free trade England, where the tariff is not changed, and they have an abounding revenue and money going begging at 2 per cent.

It simply amounts to this— if you are a manufacturer you will favor a protective tariff, and if a farmer you will favor revenue tariff. A change of govern-

MCCARTHY AT NAPANEE.

Dalton McCarthy is a name to conjure with judging from the reception accorded him in Napanee on Wednesday evening, when he addressed an audience of fully 900 people in the opera house on the great and momentous political questions of the day. Long before the doors were thrown open the street in front of the opera hall was lined with an impatient crowd anxious to secure seats, and when the doors were finally opened at about 7:20 o'clock, the mad rush for seats beggars description. Excursion trains on the B. of Q. brought in a large number of people from the adjacent district and villages to augment the throng, which the opera house was totally inadequate to accommodate, and many hundred were denied admittance.

A large number of ladies occupied position of honor on the stage and by their presence added much to the success of the evening. On the platform were many prominent citizens and farmers of both shades of politics. Seldom or ever have we witnessed a more harmonious or enthusiastic meeting. The appearance of Dalton McCarthy on the stage at about 8 p.m. was the signal for an ovation and the large crowd rose to their feet and cheered themselves hoarse. Mr. McCarthy was accompanied by Messrs. M. W. Pruy, W. S. Dettlor, M. C. Bogart, Thos. E. Anderson, John T. Grange, Thos. Symington and others.

When the cheering had subsided Mr. W. S. Herrington's pretty little daughter, Ellen, stepped forward and presented the leader of the Third Party with a bouquet of flowers. Mr. McCarthy stopped and kissed the little maid, and the crowd went wild with enthusiastic again.

Mr. M. W. Pruy on coming to the front was greeted with hearty cheers. He said he was pleased to see so many present, for more reasons than one, as he had had some hand in getting up this meeting. After a few remarks Mr. Pruy nominated Mr. Allan Oliver, reeve of Richmond, for chairman. Mr. Thos. Symington, in seconding the nomination, said it might look strange when he rose to second the nomination of his old political enemy, Mr. Allan Oliver. The time had come for a change—we had reached a period in our affairs when all good men should sink party differences and unite for the common good.

Mr. Oliver's nomination was received with favor by the audience, and as chairman, he acquitted himself to the satisfaction of all. After a short speech he called on Mr. Chas. Stevens, Independent Candidate, to come forward (cheers) and on Mr. Wilson (received with an ominous silence) and on Mr. Switzer (cheers). Messrs. Stevens and Switzer responded to the invitation, but Mr. Wilson was conspicuous by his absence.

Mr. Chas. Stevens gave a brief address. He was out as an Independent and in the field to stay until the 23rd of June. He had hoped to be in a position to bring down his platform, but the printer was now busy putting it in type and he might introduce it at a latter stage in the evening.

Mr. Switzer also made a short address, in which he stated that he was not only opposed to the Dominion government but on the question of Remedial Legislation as well. He was opposed to interference with the rights of Manitoba to govern herself, and believed if the Remedial Bill was passed it would disturb provincial autonomy.

Mr. Dalton McCarthy on being introduced was greeted with loud and long continued cheers. He said he was pleased to be present, and was here on his own accord. He had received more pressing invitations to visit Napanee than from any place in Canada and he had at last responded to them. The large gathering here to-night showed the independent sentiment that was abroad in the land and that gathered strength as it went along. It showed that the people had come to have a mistrust and were dissatisfied with both the old political parties. Although he had not had a very great parliamentary party at his back he was not prepared to admit, though weak in numbers, they had not been able to accomplish something. The opposition he had given to the passage of the Remedial Bill and the effort to re-establish Separate Schools in Manitoba had not been in vain, owing to the part which he had the honor to play in parliament, and he did not refer so particularly to the part played in the last session but also to the opposition given in the early part of its history.

It was in 1893 that the late government of Sir John Thompson called upon the government of Manitoba to defend their course for abolishing separate schools, saying that the parliament at Ottawa had the right to interfere. If Sir John Thompson had investigated the facts—the proper course to pursue—he would have found that Manitoba had done no wrong to the minority and were quite able to manage their own affairs, and we would have been saved the racial feeling and strife now existing and which was likely to grow before June 23rd. We have been subject to the domination of the Hierarchy, said Mr. McCarthy. They have imposed on us before and will again unless we settle once for all that the Hierarchy are no longer our masters. (Cheers.)

Mr. McCarthy referred to the history of confederation briefly. We had 65 members from Quebec and 65 from Upper Canada by the arrangement. By the 65 from Upper Canada dividing among themselves they handed over the affairs to the people of Quebec to manage, and I needn't tell you who are the managers in Quebec after the proclamation of Sunday last.

The issue at present is whether we are to manage our own affairs or have them managed for us by the Hierarchy of the Province of Quebec. The question is are we to coerce the legislation of Manitoba? Whether the Hierarchy of Quebec are to tell the Province of Manitoba you must establish Separate Schools.

Mr. McCarthy here went into the history of the Manitoba schools and reviewed them from the time the Province was created in 1871, and endowed with constitutional powers and the right to govern and determine her own educational affairs. At the time Separate Schools were established in Manitoba the province had a population of 32,000, composed of 10,000 half breeds and the remaining 2,000 hardy pioneers who had ventured into the Province in advance of civilization in the hope of earning a livelihood.

Mr. McCarthy dwelt briefly with the schools of the dissident minority in Quebec. He said that in reality what was called Separate or protestant Schools there were really public schools. No self governing province or county ever adopted Separate Schools, and where ever self government prevails, the schools are public and non-sectarian. The same Hierarchy that I have already alluded to refused to join confederation unless they got Separate Schools in Ontario, and so they were imposed on us against our will. But Manitoba was created in '71, 5 years after confederation, and we gave Manitoba power over educational affairs, as it was thought they were better able to manage them and judge the local requirements than we in Ottawa.

The people of Manitoba, composed largely of the people of Ontario, our own brothers and blood relations many of them, determined to get rid of the Separate Schools, and the agitation kept growing until in 1890 it culminated in their abolishment. They were perfectly justified in this action. In these schools the public money which ought to have gone to educate the children was diverted to the church, and as a result the children were growing up in ignorance. In this wide and sparsely settled Province it was found utterly impossible to keep up two systems of schools. The people wanted one system that would be open and common to all, and in taking this course the government of Manitoba was careful not to do injustice to the minority. Their is no grievance in Manitoba. The schools are common to both Protestant and Catholic, and the schools are closed with a prayer that no Protestant, no Catholic or no Turk would object to their children listening to.

The reason the whole of this Dominion is rent in twain is to gratify the demands of the Hierarchy of Quebec. They want to perpetuate the French nationality. It's a question of French schools. The Irish or Scotch Catholics do not want Separate Schools nor do the half breeds of Manitoba if left alone. If these half breeds are educated in the public schools they will develop into loyal British subjects.—We can make patriots of them. It is because of this the Hierarchy object to public schools. They want to perpetuate the French nationality. Why don't the Scotch per might have an extra day to force the Remedial Bill through parliament.

Well they sat on Saturday but when Sunday morning arrived and the Government for very shame sake had to adjourn the House, they had discussed the Bill so thoroughly that they didn't get any further than the first line of the fourth clause—but no thanks to Mr. Wilson.

He didn't want them to send men like that to parliament. He wanted them to send men who were sincere in their opposition to the Bill. Whoever is your representative let him come with a clear mandement from you to oppose Remedial Legislation and the government who introduces it. Mr. Switzer was opposed to the Remedial Bill; he didn't know where Mr. Stevens stood as he hadn't formulated his platform yet. He may be in favor of the Bill (laughter) and a supporter of Tupper, the High and Mighty. The man whose history is the history of Canada, (loud laughter.) Tupper says: "It is true I am an egotist, but how can I be anything else in speaking of Canada. I built the C. P. R.; I am the author and framer of the National Policy, and I am the Father of Confederation." (laughter.) You good people, said McCarthy, have been raising monuments to Sir John Macdonald and giving him credit for some little part in these undertakings only to find that the man who did it all is Sir Charles Tupper and is still with you. Tupper says I am not worth a hiss. I may not be worth a hiss but I do want to disclaim the patronage of Sir Charles Tupper. Like everything else he claims the credit of being my political god father. He says he is ashamed of being my god-father. He can't be half as ashamed of it as I am dishonored by it. But Tupper may be mistaken. He has a wonderful imagination and a short memory, and you know he has often been dubbed the "Great Stretcher." He believed that Tupper was suffering with what medical men termed senile dementia. It was a form of lunacy that affected the mind if not the body. There was no doubt about the physical vigor of the War Horse of Cumberland. The way he trampled on the rights of parliament demonstrated that. Although we are a staid lot in parliament we enjoyed these little scenes when the War Horse pranced around in his glory. First it was McNeil, of North Bruce, that was read out of the party, and then the faithful Dr. Sproule was kicked out. But what about Clarke Wallace? He was the Grand Sovereign of the Orange Order and Tupper couldn't offend him. He is in the party yet. And what about Dr. Weldon who stood on the floor of the House shaking his fist and threatening revelations and daring Tupper to read him out of the party? Tupper said he didn't mean Weldon at all, he was speaking to the miserable conspirator from North Simcoe. Tupper is not proud of me but I'm as little proud of being his godchild as he is of being my political godfather. There are private reasons, which I would not wish to enumerate here, why I do not wish to be connected with the family or be looked upon as the child of that distinguished (?) man. Tupper says that the Queen through her councillors has commanded the parliament of Canada to establish Separate Schools in Manitoba. In obedience to this command he was called upon to introduce Remedial Legislation whether he liked it or not. This was not only an insult to the parliament and people of Canada but to the Queen herself. What is the parliament of this country? It is the people of Canada. There is no power under heaven can dictate to the parliament in Canada how she will govern herself. The parliament of Canada is as free as the great parliament of Westminster. It was an insult to her majesty, the brightest sovereign the world has ever produced, that she dictates to us how we shall be governed. We had the power to govern ourselves according to responsible Government, and Parliament has the power to either reject or accept the Remedial Bill. To have a man like Tupper, our Prime Minister, tell us that the Queen commanded us to establish Separate Schools was an insult to our intelligence. You would think the people of Canada never saw a newspaper and couldn't read, to hear him talk.

No! the trouble does not lie with the Privy Council or the Queen. The secret lies in the fact that Tupper has made a bargain with the Hierarchy of Quebec to do their bidding for the votes they could give them.

Mr. McCarthy referred to the men chosen by Sir Charles in forming his cabinet. The Quebecing of it was chosen not because of their peculiar fitness, but because they were all zealous churchmen.

Referring to the mandement issued by the Hierarchy he asked the audience if they knew the significance of that revenue tariff. A change of government couldn't be a disadvantage to this count. He was not a man to conceal his thoughts. He would not fail to record his vote against Tupper, and no bugaboos about Laidrie coming in and being worse would frighten him.

The speaker then referred briefly to the Curran Bridge and other steals, and showed how money had been stolen in broad daylight in front of the minister himself. He referred to the Soulanges scandal and the part taken by Sir Hibbert Tupper, whom he termed "a little whippersnapper," and asked in view of this how they could possibly be worse off by a change of government. You don't know what may turn up—I may be trumps.

Mr. McCarthy referred briefly to his trade policy. He said he was in favor of leaving our tariff as it was against the Americans until they lowered theirs to us. He recognized the benefit of access to the American market, however, and would go for a fair reciprocity treaty with them. For everything they would admit into their country free we would admit free into ours. He was in favor of lowering our tariff with the mother country. He said our present tariff discriminates against England in favor of the Americans. Our present tariff kept out English goods, and this was hard on our farmers. When they wished to ship their products to the old land they had to pay the cost of transportation both ways, as on account of our tariff the ships that took our goods to England came back empty. He was in favor of two scales of duties—maintaining our present tariff against the States till they lower theirs, and reducing it to a revenue tariff for England.

The speaker brought his excellent address to a close by calling upon them to grant him this little encouragement in the fight he was waging: add one man from Lennox, to my party of two, pledged to oppose Remedial Legislation, to support me in the 8th parliament of Canada, (Cheers.)

Mr. M. C. Bogart, in a neat address, moved a resolution that a mass meeting be held in the town hall here on Tuesday afternoon next for the purpose of forming a McCarthy club. It was seconded by W. S. Dettlor and unanimously carried.

Mr. J. T. Grange, in a catchy address, moved a vote of thanks to Mr. McCarthy, which was seconded by W. S. Herrington, who said he admired Mr. McCarthy for his honesty and bravery. The motion was carried amid much applause.

Mr. McCarthy gracefully responded and gave his views on the Senate and superannuation system, which were touched on by Mr. Grange in his address.

Mr. Chas. Stevens begged leave to read his platform which he had finished in the interim and created considerable merriment by saying that in the matter of trade "McCarthy practically endorsed his sentiments on that question." To which Mr. McCarthy responded that he had done very well seeing that he had never seen or heard of Mr. Stevens' platform or views on the question before.

The meeting disbanded with hearty cheers for Mr. McCarthy and the Queen.

NANANEE, FRIDAY, MAY 22, 1896.

THE Beaver complains in its last issue that Mr. Dawson, as was his privilege, sent from Ottawa post free copies of his great speech to every elector in his riding. The Beaver will never have occasion to complain of Uriah Wilson doing anything of the kind. Uriah's "great speeches" consist in bobbing up to record his vote when Tupper pulls the string. It is a matter of deep regret that Mr. Dawson could not find time to confer a similar favor upon the electors of Lennox.

"In the past many incapable and inexperienced men have rode into place and power on mere party cries,"—Beaver, May 15th, 1896. It is refreshing to read such confessions in the columns of our contemporary. No one is better qualified to speak on that subject and no better illustration of a voting machine being sent to parliament on a party cry could be produced than Mr. Wilson. The Beaver might have made a clean breast of it and added "In Lennox the Tupper-Caron reptile fiend has also been known to render material assistance."

The loyalty of the Liberals is not the empty lip loyalty of the Tupper's, and their hungry followers who are now making a last desperate attempt for the spoils of office. It was a Liberal Mr. Davies' who moved in the House of Commons that: "Inasmuch as Great Britain admits the products of Canada into her ports free of duty, this house is of the opinion that the present scale of duties exacted on goods mainly imported from Great Britain should be reduced." This motion was defeated by the lip loyal-existence on the passing of the Remedial Bill. Mr. Wilson dare not openly admit that he favors that bill although in the secret work of the committee he did all in his power to enforce its passage. Tupper and his government defended the releasing of Connolly and McGreevy from gaol to which they had been committed for plundering the public treasury, and we are sorry to say that Uriah Wilson held up his hand when the vote to whitewash their fallen conspirators was passed in the House. Surely Mr. Wilson does not think the electors of Lennox are all blind to the course he is following. With the exception of a few who are interested in drawing their salaries out of the country's treasury he finds now that all of his old conservative friends are deserting him. Bitterly he complains that his party is going back on him. Is it to be wondered at? There is such a thing as presuming too much upon the gullibility of the electors. Partisanship may be well enough so long as it is not carried too far. There was a time when the Conservative party could with some degree of logic make out a fair case. It is true we never did agree with the argument presented in support of that case, still it was a case that had to be met with argument and time has proven that the policy of the Conservative party was not suited to our country. Now, however there is absolutely no argument that can be presented in support of the ruinous course pursued by the government. Everyone admits that Tupper is a spendthrift and is corrupt to the core. No one, not even Uriah Wilson himself, believes in his bullying and extravagance. It is conceded on all sides that he is stirring up a religious and racial warfare tending towards the disruption of confederation. Why then should such a man be retained in power? Why should any honest man of any political persuasion vote for Uriah Wilson who is striving to keep such a man at the head of our affairs? The Conservatives of Lennox remember that Sir Charles Tupper is the man who promised to reduce our public debt. Instead of reducing it the policy that he is favoring has nearly doubled it until now the public debt is over a million dollars for every riding in Canada. It would be well to reflect for a moment upon this question of debt. How often do the electors of Lennox stop to consider this? The riding of Lennox to-day is practically mortgaged by our government for over $1,000,000. This is not an imaginary debt but a first mortgage upon the assets of every man, woman and child in Lennox. In the face of this great debt we find Uriah Wilson soliciting your support to enable him to keep in power a man who is strutting about this country scattering with a lavish hand millions of dollars here and there for all manner of wild-cat schemes, solely with a view of corrupting the electors.

If every farm in the township of Ernestown were put up at auction to-day and sold at the current prices of real estate to meet this public debt and the private mortgages against them, they would not realize enough to do it. These are startling facts, but facts they are which can be verified by anyone who will take the trouble to consult the assessment roll. In the face of this we find this blustering old man who has fattened himself and all his relatives at the public trough, laying his plans for the expenditure of tens of millions more. In the face of this we find Uriah Wilson endeavoring to persuade the electors of Lennox that they are prosperous and that it is to their interests to help him retain in power this prince of corruption. There is hope yet for the country when we find that the electors are able to break loose from the former party allegiance and to speak out like men that they are done with Tupper and Tupperism.

to each end of the bag the stone could be dispensed with, and the promising lad ran to his father with the news. The father, after duly surveying the situation, broke out like this: "You get de stone right away and put him into de bag. Your fader and grand-fader always went to mill mit de stone in de bag and you shust go dat way too. Dat is too much smardness in a poy." Now, Mr. C., I think each generation ought to be an improvement on the preceding one, else there would be no progress in the world. We ought to do a little better than our fathers did in voting as well as in everything else. I cannot see that I ought to vote just as my father did or that you ought to do so. Nor can I see that I ought or that you ought to vote just as you did 30 years ago or 5 years ago. Circumstances are continually changing and the wise man adapts himself to them, and adjusts himself to his environment. C.—That is true, but I am rather old now to be changing, and, as I said before, I am not much interested in the questions up. P.—But are you not interested in justice and right? Have you no concern about morality or honesty? You are a religious man—a member of the church—and yet you say if you vote at all in this election you will vote Conservative and that means voting for Tupperism with all that it implies. It means sanctioning by your vote corruption, bribery, boodling, lying, dishonesty, looting of the public treasure, treason to each other and to the country by a "nest of traitors," and other iniquities almost too numerous to enumerate. What I want to know is how you can reconcile giving your vote to sanction and continue all that with your ideas of religion and morality. Leaving aside for the moment coercion, tariffs and debts, which you do not appear to be much concerned in, you surely must be concerned in right and wrong among neighbors. How, then, as a moral and religious man can you bring yourself to give your sanction at the polls to the iniquities of Tupperism as I have just enumerated them? C.—I do not see it that way. I think you will do me the justice to admit that I believe in morality and honesty and try to practise them. P.—I do admit that and believe it, and holding as I do that opinion of you I cannot understand how you and many others can go to the poll and stultify yourselves by voting for the aforesaid boodlers, traitors and corruptionists. Is your moral and religious creed merely a Sunday or church affair to be left at home when you start to vote? Or do you accept the jesuitical maxim that everything is right in politics and war, and that the voter need have no scruples any more than the boodler. C.—You are going too fast. I am no jesuit, and believe in doing the right thing all the time, Sunday and Monday, on the farm and at the poll. I don't admit that in voting for the government I am voting for everything that's bad as you say. That's the Grit and Patron opinion of the government you are giving now. If these charges were true, the doctrine you are preaching would keep about half of the voters away from the polls, that is, they would have to stay away or vote Grit or Patron. This is the old story over again—Tories are very bad and Grits very good, and Patrons are still better. I think they are all pretty much alike. If half of those charges against the government could be proved true I would not vote for a government candidate. Mr. Wilson is a respectable man and a pious man, and it is not likely he would continue to support a government with all the sins you lay at their door. P.—I understand you to say if half the charges against the government can be proved you will not vote for Mr. Wilson or any other government candidate. Will you stick to that? C.—Yes, I will.

proper authorities to expel a man from the church who so ignores public morality and public honesty? C.—I would not care to go that far. To proceed on that principle a good many public men would deserve expulsion as well as Mr. Wilson—that is, assuming that these charges are all true which I cannot yet admit. P.—Well, assuming that they are true, in your opinion ought not these men to be expelled from the churches? Is it not one of the legitimate functions of the churches, and is it not the plain duty of the churches to uphold and conserve public morality and official honesty and righteousness as well as private and individual righteousness and honesty among their members? C.—Yes, I think it is, but it is doubtful whether the churches would deem it good policy to go that length. P.—Do you mean to say then, that the churches as well as the politicians are governed by policy rather than principles—that expediency is to take the place of right? C.—No, I don't mean to say that, but the question is a difficult one. P.—Well, leaving that aside, if you are not clear as to the duty of the churches in these premises, you ought at least to be clear as to your own duty, and I shall hold you as an honorable man to your compact to vote against Mr. Wilson and the Tupper government after I have placed in your hands the documentary evidence of all the charges against the most corrupt government of modern times. Good-day Mr. C.
Thus ended a colloquy which was friendly throughout, but the end of the results of it has not come yet. I shall send C. the Express which will doubtless be ready to publish any correction or comments he may choose to make.

There are two roads open to the old and young, rich and poor, who are suffering from any of the diseases now so prevalent. One leads to misery and death, the other to new life and perfect health.
The sick and suffering are fervently praying to be led in the way that guarantees a new life—the joyous road that leads onward and upward to a health and happiness.
Let it be distinctly understood that there is but one well-marked course open to all who seek the new life; it calls for the use of Paine's Celery Compound, a great physician's discovery, prescribed by the best living physicians, and always successful when honestly used. It is not a patent medicine; it is not a sarsaparilla; it is not a bitters or a nerve; it is as far beyond them all as health surpasses suffering.
To the thousands on the broad road of otion was defeated by the ipoyal...

On the vote standing 64 in favor and 98 against. Mr. Wilson voted against granting this concession to the mother country, and we find his organ, The Beaver, doing all in its power to decry Great Britain and the free trade policy that has made her powerful and prosperous.

We have repeatedly alluded to the manner in which the farmer is discriminated against by the Tupper government. The Canadian manufacturer is granted a drawback of 99 per cent of the duty on all material entering into the construction of implements intended for export abroad, but when the same make of goods are sold to the farmers of Canada, no such concession is granted. But the government even go further than this in their effort to furnish cheap implements to the foreign competitors of our farmers. In 1893 an act was passed granting $125,000 yearly for a monthly line of steamers from British Columbia to Australia to supply cheap rates to Australia for Canadian manufacturers. The farmer has to pay the lion's share of the $125,000 in order that the Australian farmer one of his strongest competitors, may be furnished with cheap agricultural implements much cheaper than the Canadian farmer can purchase them at home.
These bonused ships on their return trip from Australia bring back at a low rate, cheap Australian mutton, meats, butter, wool, tallow, hides, etc., which are thrown on our market to the injury of the Canadian farmer.

The farmers of Canada are already groaning under a load of debt and excessive taxation, but their present condition will not be a comparison to what will follow if Sir Chas. Tupper is returned to power at the next election. The country's credit would be pledged for all kinds of wild cat schemes, booting would run riot, and Canada would receive a shock from which it would take her long years to recover.

In a recent speech Sir Chas. Tupper took occasion to say that our trade with Great Britain had greatly increased under the N. P. Sir Charles neglected to say that our debt to Britain had also greatly increased and that a large percentage of our products have to be shipped to the old country annually to pay the interest on mortgages and money borrowed from and held by English capitalists.

MR. WILSON'S UNIQUE POSITION.

The present position of Uriah Wilson is extremely ludicrous. If Mr.
Wilson were to go up to the station some day and board the express train going east and declare to the fellow passengers and the outlanders that he was really travelling in a westerly direction his friends would pronounce him out of his head, and try to reason with him that if he boards a train travelling eastward he certainly must go in that direction. If however he persisted in his declaration that he was surely travelling westerly and as proof of the fact called upon his friends to witness that although he was on the east bound train he had turned his seat around so that he was facing towards the west, they would certainly send for the police and hand him over to a keeper. Yet this is exactly what Mr. Wilson is doing every day. He has cast in his lot with the government and is doing all he can to retain Sir Charles Tupper in power. Of all men on earth Tupper is the last that Mr.
Wilson should support, for it is an open secret that he detests the man and his whole family. Tupper and his government are pledged to grant millions of dollars to a railway to the ice-bound regions of Hudson Bay. Mr.
Wilson is pleading for that government and dare not say that he favors such a gigantic robbery. Tupper and are done with Tupper and Tupperism.

Dozens, yes scores of old time Conservatives are now outspoken in their convictions and are telling Mr. Wilson to his face that if he casts in his lot with Tupper they have no further use for him. Uriah Wilson spent a most uncomfortable week in endeavoring to explain to the electors his vote in committee on the Remedial Bill. Sir Charles Tupper congratulated him in the House for helping him in his effort to force the bill through. It may be very nice to receive the personal congratulations and applause of a premier, but it is not so nice to be told by the humble elector that he cannot tolerate that sort of thing. There is no use in whining, Mr. Wilson! You had a chance and a fair chance to represent the electors of Lennox at Ottawa, but you betrayed their confidence and now you must take your reward. It was all very fine to strut about Ottawa a few weeks ago arm in arm with Tupper and his gang and laugh in your sleeve at the electors of Lennox. You will find out now that the electors have been fooled for the last time.

THE ETHICS OF POLITICS. A DIALOGUE.

To the Editor of THE EXPRESS.

Dear Sir,—The following politico-religious colloquy, which took place recently between a good Conservative neighbor and myself, may make interesting and useful reading at this critical juncture of our time when party is placed before principle, honesty and justice ignored, and religion disregarded in the affairs of state by our rulers at Ottawa. While I cannot give the conversation exactly verbatim, it is according to my recollection substantially correct in every particular, and I shall gladly accept any proper correction or addition which the party of the other part may choose to make after reading my version of it in these columns, as I shall send him the paper.

P.—How do you feel over the elections Mr. C? C.—Oh I hardly know.
I am not taking much interest in the thing. P.—But you will take enough interest to cast your vote, will you not? C.—I think not. P.—But it is the duty of every good citizen to vote, especially when such great questions are in issue as at present—questions which vitally concern every citizen, and especially ourselves, the farmers.
C.—I am not much concerned with the school question, no matter which way it goes. P.—But you are concerned with the trade question, are you not, and with the expenditure, and the alarming increase of our debt? C.— Yes, of course, but I don't think I shall vote at all, I am not affected much one way or the other. P.—But I think every citizen is affected, not only materially but morally, and every voter has a moral duty to perform at the polls in this election apart from his material interests. I think it is your duty to vote. C.—But I don't see why you should be anxious for me to vote, for you know I vote Conservative. P.—And do you tell me that if you do vote on the 23rd of next month (as I think you will) that you will vote for the Tupper government?
C.—Certainly I will, I never voted Grit or Patron or anything but Conservative.
P.—And do you consider that a good reason why you never should vote any other way? Do you never change your mind on any subject as you get new light? Do you stick to what your fathers did in everything else as well as voting? Your father and mine used to cut the hay with a hand scythe and the grain with a hand "cradle," but now we both have mowers and reapers. A little further back they used, some of them, to put the grain in one end of the bag and a stone in the other to balance it over the horse's back to go to mill. A son of one of those old codgers discovered you stick to that. C.—Yes, I will.

P.—Very well, the whole of these charges can be proved, and I shall furnish you with the proof, and then I shall expect you to vote against that government. First, you will admit that they are traitors, for they have called each other traitors and nobody outside knows them as well as they know each other. And Tupper is a traitor to his country because he is striving or pretending to strive to force a system of separate schools on Manitoba, which he does not believe in himself, and which he knows to be injurious to the country, solely and only to retain the support of the Quebec hierarchy to keep himself in power. And of course any ruler who will barter away the interests, peace and welfare of his country in order to keep himself in power and pay is a traitor to his country. By the same token and a hundred others is he dishonest and corrupt. With the coercion bill he bribes the hierarchy to drive their people to the polls to support him, while he himself, within a week, has attempted openly to bribe and corrupt the great North West by offering them millions of the people's money in return for votes.
For proof positive that the Government which has for so long reigned at Ottawa was and is steeped in corruption I direct your attention to the records—not Grit or Patron assertions but the written and official records with which I shall supply you. You have doubtless heard of the McGreevy-Connolly revelation in Parliament in 1891. You have heard of the Curran Bridge plundering, of the Lake St.
John business, the Tay Canal Little Rapids Lock, Cornwall Canal, Sheikh's Island Dam, the Langevin Block, the Printing Scandal, Fredericton Bridge, and so on to the end of the long list of rotten rascalities. That Government under the moral pressure of public opinion, made a milk and water show of condemnation and punishment against these flagrant and proved offenders, as you must know, but in the case of Sir Adolphe Caron (a minister of the crown) they proved themselves corrupt as a body and as a government individually and collectively.
That minister was by a parliamentary tribunal, convicted and proved to have corruptly received $20,000 of what was virtually public money out of the subsidies to the St. John Railway Co., to bribe and corrupt certain constituencies in Quebec. The case was so clear that to deny it were useless, and sir, that member of the government and minister of the crown, (with a knighthood) had the effrontery and moral turpitude to admit the charge and aver that he would do the same thing again, if necessary. Did that government turn him out or resign in a body? Not a bit of it! He kept his place as minister of the crown and not a member of that government resigned his place. If this does not prove that the whole government was corrupt what proof do you want or what do you call proof? C.—I heard something about it, but did not suppose it was so bad as that. Can you give me the documents that set out the facts? P.—Yes, I shall place before you what will satisfy you. Hansard and the report of the parliamentary committee which the government was forced to appoint to investigate the matter are the official documents containing the proof; and as to the non-expulsion and non-resignation every body knows that Caron remained and nobody resigned. Now, you said a minute ago that as Mr. Wilson is a respectable man and a member of the church he would not be likely to sanction these things and support a government of that kind. Should you find that he really has done so—that the charges are all true and proved, (and I intend to place the evidence before you) will you consider it your duty not only to vote against him and

suffering from troubles such as rheumatism, neuralgia, dyspepsia, indigestion, constipation, liver and kidney affections, nervousness, heart and blood diseases, we would say, use a few bottles of Paine's Celery Compound faithfully according to directions. It will surely cure you and restore you to your former good health.

Remember that delays are dangerous; the symptoms of to-day may to-morrow result in misery or death. To be well and strong, and able to battle successfully with life's duties, cares and troubles, you must use Paine's Celery Compound, the medicine that has done such marvellous things for thousands in the past.

When buying Paine's Celery Compound, be careful to avoid the dealer who, for the sake of profit, would have you take a worthless medicine. Keep clear of such merchants and dealers who deceive you and imperil your life.

Mr. A. Budd, of Shanty Bay, Ont., who was quickly and wonderfully cured by Paine's Celery Compound, writes as follows:

"For the benefit of sufferers I gladly give my experience with Paine's Celery Compound. After suffering from dyspepsia for thirty-five years, and meeting with many failures with other medicines, I decided to use Paine's Celery Compound, having heard of so many cures effected by it.
The Compound, after I used it for a time, produced miraculous results and banished my troubles.

"From a condition of helplessness—being unable to eat or sleep—I now feel well and strong. I am astonished at the results as my trouble was an old and chronic one.
I have recommended Paine's Celery Compound to some of my neighbors, and in every case it has given satisfaction. I will always strongly recommend its use when I have opportunity."

A SIMPLE CURE.

As a sure cure for headache, whether caused by liver, stomach, kidney or nerve trouble, Burdock Blood Bitters is the most effective medicine known. It removes the cause of headache by restoring all the organs of the system to proper action and health. Doubts disappear in view of proofs like this.

In the spring of 1891 I got a bottle of B. B.
B. for my mother who had been troubled for twenty-five years with sick headache. I got it from Mr. W. Paxton Baird, of Woodstock, N. B., who gave me two other medicines to take home and let my mother take her choice. Fortunately she chose the Burdock Blood Bitters, and I returned the other bottles. She used it for three months, and has had no headache since.
We are sure that it was B. B. B. cured her, as she took no other medicine.

POTATOES.

The Results of a Timely Bulletin on the Culture of the Tuber.

The United States Agricultural Department has just issued a bulletin on potato culture, which we summarize as follows:

First, a rich, sandy loam, well drained, and well supplied with vegetable matter, is the best soil for potatoes. Stiffer soils should be made light with green manuring and under-draining or deep ploughing. If commercial fertilizers are used, those containing superphosphates and a large amount of potash should be selected; potash best in the form of sulphate.

Second, in cutting potatoes for seed, regard should be had to the size of the piece rather than to the number of eyes. A single eye is sufficient, if it has large backing. If seed is near the value of the expected crop, large pieces of three or four ounces are recommended. Small potatoes, if used, should not be cut.

Third, For a large yield, planting should be in deep furrows or trenches, four or five inches deep and covered without ridging, deep planting for late potatoes better resists drought. For early yield, planting at three inches with ridging, produces better results, but smaller crop.

Fourth, Harrowing with a drag or over-turned harrow, as soon as the first sprouts appear above ground, will destroy the weeds which have started and assist the growth of the potato.

Fifth, The time for planting will depend upon the soil and climate, which the selection of the best varieties, must depend upon the judgment and experience of the farmer himself.

For Protecting Newly Set Plants.

The sketch herewith shows a simple contrivance. Short pieces of board a foot long and nine inches wide are sharpened as shown in the diagram, and to these are tacked long strips of cheap cotton cloth. Drawn tightly, and the sharpened ends pressed down into the earth, a fine protection is afforded plants that have

POULTRY HOUSE.

One That is Recommended by an Expert Poultry Grower.

At a farmers' institute meeting in Thorndale, Middlesex County, a short time ago, Mr. J. E. Meyers, a poultry expert, was asked what sort of a new house was best, to which he replied: "Shelter is an important consideration in locating a house. For 100 hens, it should be 15 by 40 feet, having a 3-foot entry. This allows six square feet for each hen, which is little enough to be profitable. This space should be divided into 3 compartments, as about 33 hens is all that should be in one flock. Build the house facing the south; five feet high on south side and six at north. One-third of the south side should be glass, doubled in winter and shaded in summer. In building, put on an inside and outside coat of tar paper and line the roof with heavy building paper to avoid sudden changes of inside temperature."

Figs. 1. and 11. (re-engraved from "Low Cost Poultry Houses," by Dar-mow), represent a house 38x10 feet, eight feet high in front and six feet in the rear. 1-1 represents a platform over which the roosts are placed. Over the platform, beneath which are the nests, nail kegs, with one side out, will answer, or whatever else is thought better. The bone boxes are for bravel, bones, oyster shells, etc.

In building the house use either 2x4 or 3x4 scantling for posts, sills and framework. Hemlock inch lumber will answer for siding, and roof sheeting. The cracks should be battened with 1x3 and the roof should be covered with standard roofing paper, properly cleated and given two coats roofing paint. It is necessary to line the house with common lumber, covered with tarred paper fastened on with laths. The platform should be about 2-1/2 feet high and 7 feet long. In front of platform make a door 1 foot high and 7 feet long, through which to get the eggs from nests. The top of platform should be on hinges, so as to be easily raised out of the way when it is necessary to clean behind it. No further explanation is necessary, as the figures are self-explanatory.

We would recommend that all poultry houses face the south and have copious yards attached. It is well to plant one or two fruit trees in a poultry yard, as they will furnish shade in summer and the insects which visit the trees will be destroyed by the hens if they come within reach. The writer has seen plum trees in a poultry yard so heavily laden that it was necessary to prop very many of the large limbs to save them from breaking.—Farmer's Advocate.

Care of Young Chickens.

The hen may know a great deal about the proper care of young chicks, but she'll get along a great deal better if you give her a little help occasionally.

When the chicks begin to hatch you can occasionally help them along, after they have "pipped" the egg, by mak-

Old Rip Van Winkle went up into the Catskill mountains to take a little nap of twenty years or so, and when he awakened, he found that the "cruel war was over," the monthly magazines had "fought it over" the second time and "blown up" all the officers that had participated in it. This much is history, and it is also an historical fact that, during the same length of time, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery had become the most celebrated, as it is the most effective, Liver, Blood and Lung Remedy of the age. In purifying the blood and in all manner of pimples, blotches, eruptions, and other skin and scalp diseases, scrofulous sores and swellings, and kindred ailments, the "Golden Medical Discovery" manifests the most positive curative properties.

Every disorder that can be reached through the blood, yields to its purifying qualities. Besides, it builds up whole-some flesh and strength; not merely fat like filthy Cod liver oil and its nasty "emulsions" but solid flesh.

A scrofulous condition of the blood invites catarrh, bronchitis, and consumption. We're all exposed to the germs of consumption, grip and malaria—yet only the weak ones suffer. When you're weak, tired out, and debilitated, or when pimples and blotches appear—heed the warning in time. The "Golden Medical Discovery" sets all the organs into healthy action—especially the liver, and that's the point of entrance for these germs. Then if the blood be pure, they'll be thrown off. There's no risk.

CAUTION.—Accept no substitute for the "Golden Medical Discovery" that may be recommended to be "just as good." It may be better for the dealer, because of paying him a better profit, but he is not the one who needs help.

THE APIARY.

The Modus Operandi of Transferring a Colony to a Frame Hive.

If colonies have been purchased in box hives, they should be transferred to the frame hive as soon as a seasonable opportunity presents itself.

Early in the season it is not a difficult matter to drive bees from their combs, cut out the latter and fit them into their frames. If combs thus fitted in are temporarily held in place in the frames, the bees, under whose care they should be placed at once, will fasten them securely in a few hours or days at most. Fig. 1 shows the method of procedure. Towards the middle of a pleasant day, about the end of April or 1st of May, blow smoke into the hive to be transferred, and after the bees have been given a few minutes to fill up with honey, invert the hive and place over the open end the frame hive. By rapping continuously for some minutes on the hive, the bees will be impelled to leave it and cluster in the upper box. The hive thus vacated may then be taken into a closed room and one side pried off, to facilitate the removal of the combs. The box containing the bees is to be placed meanwhile on the spot originally occupied by the box hive, the bees being allowed to go in and out without restraint, only two pre-

PROGRESS OF ELECTRICITY.

The Wonderful Marvels Now Seen at a Modern Electrical Exhibition.

At the Electrical Exposition in New York last week were seen marvels of which poets, in their wildest imaginings have never dreamed, and the wonderful fluid that we know by the name of electricity, chained and made to do man's work, aye, and woman's, too, even to performing such ordinary household functions as baking biscuits and ironing clothes. What the average visitor asked to see first was the X-ray display, and, when satisfied with this, he rushed across the hall to view Niagara and hear the thunder of the falls. Of course, the exhibition was most useful to practical electricians, who find in these "fairy tales of science" and "long results of time," helpful suggestions and information in the way of business. These gentlemen know all about kilowatts, amperes, dynamos and induction coils, which are "caviare to the general," but whether the visitor was seeking scientific information or simply wishing to be amused and instructed, this wonderful collection of what would have been regarded as miracles twenty-five years ago, can be relied upon to meet almost every possible wish in this direction. And still we are told that we are only in the infancy of electrical discovery—having yet scarcely crossed the threshold of the marvelous temple that it will be the privilege of posterity to enter and inhabit.

The Zerograph.

The zerograph, an instrument in appearance very much like an ordinary typewriter, is being used in England for transmitting or receiving telegraph messages. One machine is employed at each end of the line. In sending a telegraphic message no special training is required. The operator depresses in turn the keys of what appears to be an ordinary typewriter keyboard, with the usual arrangement of the letters. The depression of a key closes the connection of a local battery of from five to ten small accumulators, which causes a current to flow, not only actuating the printing and inking mechanism of the transmitting instrument, but also closing the line circuit, which, in its turn, completes the local circuit of the receiving instrument. The two machines are thus simultaneously actuated, and as the operator presses the key he not only prints the message on his own instrument, but makes an exact reproduction upon the receiving instrument. As soon as the end of a line is reached the machine automatically moves the paper forward, and releasing a spring, causes the paper roller to move along ready for the first letter to strike at the commencement of a new line. The machine is thus perfectly automatic in its action, and may safely be left to take care of itself at the receiving end, the message as received being printed on the roll of paper without any attention being required.

The Efficiency of Steam Turbines.

The steam turbine is attracting the attention of engineers to a growing extent, and reports come from abroad of really surprising results. At the Bordeaux exhibition a 100-horse power De Laval turbine ran on 21 pounds of steam per hour per horse power on a seven hour test, with 113 pounds initial pressure and 26 inches of vacuum. With a load of 50 horse power the consumption per horse power increased to only 23.27 pounds. A satisfactory item as bearing upon the continued efficiency is that after nine months of use the turbine generated a horse power on 19.53 pounds. At Troyes a two-horse power turbine, running with only 71 pounds initial developed a horse power on the same amount—19.58. When it is remembered that these are brake, not indicated horse power, it will be recognized that these performance more than equal the recorded duties of sim-should be removed and placed under an old blanket in a basket set near the kitchen fire. If left in the nest, they are liable to be killed before the hen comes off. When you remove the chicks, take out the empty shells also.

Don't let a hen run around all summer with two or three, or even half a dozen chicks. Take them from her, and at night slip them under another hen.

Don't feed the young chicks during the first twenty-four hours of their existence unless there is one that seems on the point of collapse. In this case a little warm milk poured down the throat will have a revivifying effect.

After the first day the chicks want plenty of food and want it often. For the first week we feed stale bread soaked in warm milk, and then squeezed dry. Slop is a good thing for hogs, but not for chickens. A little cayenne pepper may be added for an occasional stimulation.

Under no circumstances should young chickens ever be fed corn meal that has been mixed with cold water. If you have nothing but corn meal, feed it before feeding, or better still make a corn bread, season with a pinch of salt and cayenne and feed it crumbled up.

As soon as the young chicks can take whole grain, give them whole wheat. It's the best chicken feed in the world. It doesn't pay to let the hen and her brood run at large, unless it is for a little time in the middle of the day over a limited range. Keep the hen cooped up, and above all things, keep the coop clean.

Don't feed at one time more than the hen and chicks will eat up clean. Feed often and in small quantities should be the rule.—Farm News.

Fence Philosophy.

The hired man finds the rail fence an easy resting place, but that isn't exactly what a fence is built for.

A good farmer keeps the weeds and briars out of his fence corners; but the time spent in fighting weeds in the corners of an old rail fence would pay for a modern fence in a few years.

It isn't always safe to judge a man's character by the clothes he wears, but you can usually determine pretty closely what kind of a farmer a man is by looking at his fences.

CONCLUSIVE PROOF.

From a Well Known Citizen.

"My daughter Polly, has for more than a year been troubled with severe symptoms of kidney disease. She had constant and acute pains in her back. The pain in her head was fearful and almost unendurable. It frequently prevented her from attending school, and she found study at home practically impossible. She had no appetite, and did not sleep well. The pain was very severe around her heart, and she was much troubled with fluttering and palpitation. She was completely worn out in body and was tired and drowsy all the time. Her mother and myself became seriously alarmed as she was constantly getting worse."

"Last July my daughter Sarah, a teacher in the Public School at Kingsville, Ont., came home to spend her vacation, and finding her sister in such a distressing and dangerous condition, said, 'I am taking Doan's Kidney Pills and they are doing me much good. I have a box with me and will divide with Polly, which she did. By the time Polly had finished the half box her improvement in health was so marked, that I procured more from Mr. Fraleigh's drug store."

Her full restoration to health and spirits was rapid and continuous. She has now none of her former dangerous, painful and distressing kidney troubles. She eats and sleeps well, and for more than a month has enjoyed the most vigorous health. She has not lost a day at school since she commenced taking the pills, and has so much faith in them since they restored her to full health that she has decided to keep six boxes in the house all the time, in case they should be needed and not available. Her cure has been so wonderful she thinks they will cure any complaint. If the pills had cost $1000 a box, I would not have bargained for the money. The restoration of my daughter to full health and strong girlhood, from her former serious sickness, etc., has made her mother, myself and daughter a happy family."

"I make the above statement with the full approbation of my wife and daughter, voluntarily and without any urging or inducement whatever, to show the gratitude my daughter, wife and myself feel for the wonderful cure wrought by the Doan's Kidney Pills. I do not feel the least doubt that her trying the pills just at the time she did saved us a large doctor's bill, as she was all but sick abed at the time. I am sixty-two years of age, a carpenter by trade, have been a resident of St. Peter for forty years, and am well known, and I make this solemn declaration believing the same to be true, and knowing the same to have the same effect as an oath, and according to the Act respecting extra Judicial Oaths 1888."

snagging the box well and provide for ventilation by propping it up from the bottom and leaving also a slight opening at the top.

In filling the frames with combs, cut from a box hive the largest and straightest sheets having the most sealed worker brood in them, and so cut that the frame will fit over them snugly, taking pains so far as possible to have the comb placed in the frame in the same position as it was built. The comb, if not heavy, can be held in place temporarily by slender wire pushed through holes punched in the side of the top bars. In many instances the comb when pressed into the frame will seem so firm as not to need nails or sticks, but in the heat of the hive, and with the weight of the bees that will cluster on it to repair the cut edges and fasten them to the bars, unsupported combs are very apt to give way, creating disastrous confusion. Thus the strips as shown at Fig. II. should always be used.—Frank Benton, M.S., in Honey Bee Manual, issued by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Spring Management.

A beekeeper would be as imprudent to have his forces too strong too early, as would the farmer who would have his harvest hands waiting on expense a week or two before his wheat was ready to reap. Perhaps not quite so bad, but it will do for an illustration.

If it is remembered that a bee is in the egg from about three days, in the larva form about six days, and in the chrysalis form about 12 days, making a period of 21 days from the egg to the perfect bee, and that then from 12 to 16 days after being hatched it goes to the field as a honey-gatherer, you can calculate when it will be necessary to commence getting your forces ready to gather the honey crop. It will be better to have them strong a few days too soon than a few days too late for very often the honey crop that is gathered is collected in a very few days. Especially is this true of white clover and basswood.

At the beginning of the honey flow our hives ought to be full and running over with bees and brood if we would reap the best results.

The queen, of her own choice, lays her eggs in a circle, or rather globe fashion; so if the brood nest is to one side of the hive, move the frames with the brood to the centre of the hive, then the brood nest will be spread alike toward the outer edge of the hive. By attending to these little things very much can be done toward increasing your forces. By giving the queen a fair chance, if she is a good one, you will have no trouble to have a hive full of bees to gather the harvest.

Should you have a very weak colony, with a good queen, it will help very much if you will put the queen and bees on about three frames, to the center of the hive, with division boards on each side, and if chaff division boards were used it would be all the better, to retain all the heat possible in the hive, being sure, of course, to have honey in the frames.

The entrance should be closed to about a bee passage, both to retain heat and to guard against robbers. Enamelled cloth should also be placed over the frames, as it will help to retain heat and thereby assist in building up the weak colony.—Geo. Spitzer, in Ohio Farmer.

Plymouth Rocks.

No breed has been received with as much favor with the farmers and market poultry men of the country. They are prolific winter layers of brown eggs, and make a plump, meaty boiler at eight to ten weeks old, and heavy roasters at twelve to sixteen weeks old. They originated in New England, and are well adapted to all climates, being hardy and vigorous.

power. The efficiencies increase with the size and power. If it shall transpire upon repeated test and with continuous use that this type of motor can attain and maintain such duties as these without betraying serious disadvantages it will make a serious rival for the piston engine, than which it is much lighter for the same power, small, compact and extremely simple.

A Portable Search Light.

A new portable search light has been put upon the market. It weighs less than fifteen pounds, which permits of its being carried without fatigue, or it can be suspended by a chain and operated by the officer of the watch. With fifteen amperes of current at 45 volts pressure, small objects, such as spar buoys, three-fourths of a mile distant, can be easily made out, while sails have been seen three miles away.—Philadelphia Record.

Horse Power of a Cannon.

A recent issue of La Nature contains a short note in which the horse power of a cannon is calculated. An Italian cannon of 100 tons, with a charge of 550 pounds of powder and a shot weighing about 2,000 pounds, will give an initial velocity of 1,600 yards per second; the length of time during which the power acts is less than one-hundredth of a second, from which it follows that the horse power developed is about 17,000,000.

Röntgen Rays in Vienna.

Two Berlin physicists, assistant professors at the university, had been invited by a club in Vienna to deliver a lecture with practical demonstrations on Röntgen's X rays. But the police in Vienna declined to grant the necessary permit, the refusal being in writing that as "to experiments with so-called Roentgen rays, permission cannot be given, as nothing is here officially known about the dangerousness or dangerousness of said rays."

Fogs are Fall.

Fogs are more frequent in October and November than at any other period of the year, because, besides the evaporation from seas, rivers and lakes, there is a constant exhalation from the ground in the form of vapor.

Mothers

Anxiously watch declining health of their daughters. So many are cut off by consumption in early years that there is real cause for anxiety. In the early stages, when not beyond the reach of medicine, Hood's Sarsaparilla will restore the quality and quantity of the blood and thus give good health. Read the following letter:

WHEELWOMEN OF EUROPE.

How They Dress in Copenhagen, Paris and Vienna.

The bicycling woman is raising a storm of argument in the German and Austrian papers some speaking for and some against the innovation. One paper, the Vienna Mode, brings an illustrated article showing types of wheelwomen in different climes. It says that in many parts of Germany and Austria a bicycling woman is still considered out of place, for the conservative German element has not ceased to believe that the bicycle is indecent and undignified for a lady to use. Opinions differ, however, and the woman who has as pioneer introduced the wheels in these countries, have first set the fashion, secondly created a necessity and thirdly, established it as a lasting custom.

THE COPENHAGEN GIRL.

The introduction of the bicycle was as difficult as was the introduction of the umbrella in the eighteenth century. This simple invention was only introduced generally after women had learned to use it and not until the inventor had for a long time been dead. During his lifetime this deserving man had been subjected to the ridicule, the mockery, the attacks and the insults of the conservative instinct of the masses in London. Even the name of this benefactor to humanity has been lost. He is buried somewhere in an English country churchyard, and to this day children will throw mud and sand and stones at his tomb when passing by. If they are asked why they do it, they do not know. It is an old custom, bequeathed from generation to generation, which represents nothing but an atavistic campaign of defence of the conservative spirit of the populace.

CEREMONIES OF CARDS.

Cards of condolence are sent a week after a death occurs. One card is left for a family—no more.

Cards of congratulation should be left in person, and if the family are at home the visitor should go in and express her good wishes.

Cards of courtesy should be sent with all gifts, such as books, fruit and flowers, or any trifling remembrances sent by friends to friends.

Cards of ceremony are generally used when an invitation to a wedding is given, or after an acceptance to a dinner—in any case where the card is required to do duty for formal entertainments.

Cards should be sent after a change in residence or an absence abroad.

Cards should not be used when a regret is necessary. A note is the good form.

At an afternoon tea or reception every one should leave her card with the servant on entering. If unable to attend, she should write a note the next morning, giving the reason.

The "at home" card is sometimes used for reception, with an additional name or names of the ladies to which the reception is given. Very often a separate card of a lady assisting will be sent; either is correct.

To write "regrets" or "accepts" on a card is very bad form. A note is the proper way in declining or accepting invitations.

When an engagement is announced leave a card.

After a marriage takes place leave a card.

On the return of a friend from a long journey leave a card.

After a death in a family leave a card.

Strangers in town should send their cards with their addresses to friends, and a call should be made on them as soon as possible.

In cases of P. P. C. the card is generally sent by mail on the day of the departure.

When a card is left for a stranger who is stopping at a hotel "For Mrs. —" should be written on the top of the card.

The correspondence card is no longer used except as a business message.

To ask for a sick friend leave a card with the words "To inquire" written across the top. Expect no reply.

Cards of condolence need not be answered. Cards of courtesy or congratulation should be replied to promptly.

Announcement of births should be a small card, with the child's name in full, tied with a bow of white ribbon, at the left-hand corner. With it should accompany the parents' card, and mailed in double envelopes of medium size. A card of congratulation should be sent to the mother in return. When a young lady is to be married

IT'S MIGHTY COMFORTIN'.

Oh, it's mighty comfortin' when your hair is gittin' thin, And the wrinkles in your face have come to stay.

Just to feel her little hand smoothin' out each silver strand. While you meet her lovin' look and hear her say—

"John, my dear, it seems as though every day you live you grow Handsomer than in the olden days;" And you smile back at your wife while you think in all your life, You never heard a sweeter word of praise.

Then somehow the teardrops rise to your dim, old fadin' eyes. While you kiss the tender hand still white and small, And you try to tell her how you loved her then—you love her now. But, bless me, if the words will come at all!

For, just then, it comes to you to think of trials she's gone thro' And borne without a murmur for your sake. You can only bow your head at the lovin' things she's said, And your poor old heart can only ache and ache.

But she knows what ails you then, and she kisses you again. While you hear her gently whisper, sweet and low, "Life has bro't more hopes than fears; we have known more smiles than tears, You're the dearest dear of dears, John Anderson, my Jo!"

So it's comfortin', I say, when your hair is gittin' gray, And you're slippin' down life's hill a mighty fast, Just to feel her little hand strokin' back each silver strand, While she whispers that she loves you—to the last.

Pure Water.

It is very important that pure water be provided for all kinds of farm stock the coming season, but more particularly for the swine. It has been clearly demonstrated that swine have escaped the ravages of hog cholera when they had water from deep wells. Every farmer who expects to engage in swine raising to any considerable extent should not fail to provide the right kind of water supply.—Agricultural Epitomist.

It is claimed that the perfume of flowers disappears as soon as the starch in the petals is exhausted; and it may, it is said, be restored by placing the flower in a solution of sugar, when the formation of starch and the emission of fragrance will be at once resumed.

The earth in making one complete revolution in the space of twenty-four hours must turn with a velocity almost exactly equal to that of a cannon ball. In short, its rate of speed at the equator is exactly 1,507 feet per second. This is equal to a mile every 3 6-10 seconds—seventeen miles a minute.

In Paris the autocar is rapidly taking a place for business purposes. The Magasin du Louvre, after experiment with a motor-driven parcel van, has decided to adopt a special form of parcels delivery van propelled by petroleum motive power, and has ordered eighteen of these autocars to be built for its use.

It is said that yellow fever is being successfully treated at Brazil by a refrigerating process. The patient is placed for three days in a box, the temperature of which is only one or two degrees above the freezing point—the theory being that the bacilli of the disease cannot reproduce themselves except at high temperature.

For practical purposes from twelve to thirteen miles is the range of the most powerful Armstrong guns now used. This distance was, however, been considerably exceeded by Krupp's 130-ton steel gun, which fired a shot weighing 2,600 pounds, a distance of a few yards over fifteen miles. The gun cost $195,000 and each projectile $4,750.

It is learned that Russia has induced China to make all her railroads now building in the northern part of the flowery kingdom 4 feet 11 inches wide, the width of the railroads in Russia. The advantages of this concession are apparent from the fact that in the future engines and trains of the great Siberian railway can be run over Chinese lines.

for Infants and Children.

For women is a VIENNESE BE-question of dress. It is true enough that women might use their ordinary street dresses when riding a wheel, and in the most fashionable part of Copenhagen, where the bicycle has become so common as to be considered an ordinary means of locomotion, hundreds of women and girls are seen flying by in dresses differing in nothing from those of the pedestrians.

The most extreme bicycle costumes are, of course, seen in Paris. The illustration furnished of one of the fair bicyclists of Paris will satisfy the reader that the limit of similarity of dress has about been reached, for were it not for the full upper sleeve, one could not tell from a distance whether a wheelman or a wheelwoman was approaching. Let the big sleeves go out of fashion to-day and the transformation will be complete.

This is about the keynote of the Vienna Mode, a rather conservative fashion paper which has been advocating the bifurcate skirt, and even bloomers, for wheelwomen, but always with due regard to existing styles, and avoiding all extremes. The large cut shows that contemporary ideal of a bicycle woman's dress. Although dressed to suit all the emergencies and exigencies of the sport, the costume is not in the least im-modest, and remains pleasing in any position the rider may assume. The

A WHEELWOMAN OF PARIS.
The dress is made of dark blue cheviot, the bloomers are cut very full and arranged in folds at the belt. The shirt waist of light colored surah silk with a turn-down collar is worn with this costume, and the large necktie almost covers the front and is fastened in the belt. A Spencer jacket with wide collar and full sleeves, finishes the outfit. Dark blue woolen stockings, or, if preferable, leggings of the same material as the suit, may be worn. It cannot be denied, that with the little flat, round cap, the appearance of this wheel-woman is rather captivating.

Clara Barton's Victory.

Those who believed that Miss Clara Barton was departing on a fool's errand when she started for Turkey with relief for the Armenians, in face of the Sultan's order that she would not be permitted to distribute it, are now called upon to witness the success of this noble woman's efforts. With indomitable pluck, she refused to take no for an answer from the Sultan, and went along calmly with her preparations, proceeded to Constantinople on her humane mission, and there made a personal plea to be allowed to administer succor to the miserable Armenians. At first she was only partially successful, but now comes the gratifying news that Tewfik Pasha, the Turkish Foreign Minister, has given his assent to the demand that all relief afforded to the Armenians by the agents of the American Red Cross Society shall be distributed unconditionally, except that one member of the Turkish relief commission shall be present. Accordingly, the work of relief under these conditions will go promptly forward, and the world will have additional reason to be grateful to Miss Barton for her untiring, unselfish and altogether noble efforts in behalf of suffering humanity.—Philadelphia North American.

The Fashionable Colors.

Plain colors will be favorites for walking costumes, for unceremonious occasions, but there are a number of fancy new woollens so beautiful in designs and shadings that they are sure to enjoy great favor. The thick sackcloth in blue and the natural color will be much used for tailor costumes, and as the buttons and waistcoats are extremely chic they will be considerably worn. That material is thick, although made of cotton or linen thread, and is well-suited to the style of skirt and bodice we expect will be in vogue. Also to be noted among the spring materials are the mohairs and alpaca, with woven silk patterns in many shades. There is also a kind of snowflake upon a canvas ground that is always white, while the ground may be had in any color. The white flakes on a gray surface is, very desirable, but inappropriate for summer.

The Newest Chines.

The newest chines are remarkably lovely. Many of them are thrown on shot taffetas and shaded grounds, as sombre effects are among the latest novelties this year; some of them have stripes that shade into one another.
One unusual chine effect is on a shaded ground which appears to be covered with a minute white network, and the chines are thrown on pink-shaded stripes and on carmelite stripes. The best of the chine effects are printed on the warp; it is only the less expensive class in which the pattern is printed after the silk is woven, but this is so cleverly done that it exactly imitates the results obtained by the results obtained by the superior methods. Chines are also to be had in a watered pattern, and numerous are the cashmerian figures. For maiden and youthful matrons these silks are obtainable in colors and designs that recall the Watteau period.

Fashionable Economy.

Fashionable women in London are agitating a new league, which has the worthy motive of preventing extravagance in dress, and even limiting the number of dresses a woman shall buy in one year, providing, of course, she becomes a member. So many women dress beyond their means to keep pace with their more favored associates that this "anti-dress league," is proposed as a sort of mantle of charity to cover a small dress allowance with fashionable respect, and bring about an average rule for dress which shall govern the richer as well as the poorer members of society. The success of this enterprise is yet to be seen, but the amusing side of it is that the women who are the most enthusiastic workers in the cause keep very clear of it themselves.

All About Her,

Delft gowns, which are in reality tailor combinations of cadet blue and white, are being ordered largely.

Short vels, not unlike those used by the French infant of fashion, are worn by youthful brides, who consider the more voluminous fall too stately.

Some exquisite drawn work is done by machine. In fact, the very daintiest designs both in embroidery and this form of labor can be skillfully and swiftly accomplished in this manner.

Violets are worn par excellence with street and reception costumes. Occasionally mignonette is used in combinations with them, but other flowers are not seen on the best dressed woman.

Died in Youth.

It is our sad duty to chronicle the death of Robert David Roblin, which sad event occurred at the residence of his uncle, Mr. A. W. Wagar, on Tuesday morning. Deceased was only 15 years of age and a remarkably bright and intelligent boy. Sometime ago he contracted a cold which developed into consumption, and despite all efforts to check its progress he succumbed to the ravages of the disease on Tuesday. His father preceded him to the grave some few years ago, and his mother is at present in Victoria, B.C., and unable to attend the funeral. His brother, James, in the employ of Haines & Lockett, and his sister, Pearl, were with him when he died. The funeral took place on Wednesday to the Napanee cemetery and was largely attended.

CAMPAIGN COMMENTS.

"Father, who travels the road so late?"
"Hush, my child 'tis the candidate."

Get off the fence. No man should be afraid to tell how he is going to vote.

Mr. Wilson is conducting a "still-hunt" campaign.

Tupper:—toll and tolling; Laurier:—life and liberty.

The P. P. A. of Lennox will take no action as a body in the coming election.

The Quebec Bishops' mandement is a command to all Catholics to vote for Tupper. Will Catholics resent this interference in secular affairs?

The Returning Officer for Addington informs us that a candidate to save his deposit must have one-half of the total number of votes polled for the successful candidate.

Mr. R. C. Clute Q. C., will not contest East Hastings.

A statistician has figured out that the conservatives have since 1878 increased the debt of Canada at the rate of $1,000 an hour, or $16 66 a minute. Elect Tupper and he will increase it at the rate of $3,000 an hour.

Galvanized iron ballot boxes, made by Kingston Penitentiary labor, will be used in the coming elections. About 7,500 old boxes and 72,000 new ones will be required.

Mr. J. W. Bell at a meeting in Sydenham as reported by the Kingston News, accused Mr. Laurier of stealing Mr. McCarthy's motion of a six months hoist to the Remedial Bill. And still some men talk seriously of sending Mr. Bell to represent Addington in Parliament.

If J. W. Bell is a consistent opponent of Remedial Legislation he should oppose the Government on all other measures until they drop the coercion bill.

"Free trade with America will be ruinous and disastrous to the farmers of Canada," so says J. W. Bell, "and he knows, yes he do."

"Articles can be bought cheaper here than across the line" says J. W. Bell. Will this very logical (?) politician kindly inform us in view of this how access to the United States market would mean ruin to our farmers and disaster to our manufacturers.

We have it on the authority of J. W. Bell that combines do not increase prices. He further avers that there is no policy in one party holding up the extravagance of the other party because the money spent in building the C. P. R., the Intercolonial railway and the Tay Canal could not have been better spent. J. W. is no doubt highly enamoured of the Hudson Bay Railway and the Chignecto Ship railway, also.

It is rank hypocrisy to say that Laurier if elected premier would grant the church more by way of Remedial Legislation than Sir Charles Tupper. Mr. Laurier has fought the demands of the Hierarchy ever since he entered public life and the Bishops are setting the heather on fire in Quebec in their efforts to defeat him. Although a Frenchman and a Roman Catholic Mr. Laurier did not shrink the issue but rose in his place in Parliament and moved the six months hoist to the Bill while recreant Orangemen of the Hughes and McGillivray ilk wobbled and evaded the issue. Ask yourself the question why do the Hierarchy desire the defeat of Laurier?

Here is an Independent American opinion of Sir Charles Tupper: "It is not unusual for Sir Charles Tupper to leave London for Ottawa when his party is in need of help, when he comes he usually starts a new party cry as he did in the general election of 1891. The cry was then for a commercial treaty with the United States. He said a commercial treaty was pending and asked the country for a large majority to strengthen the hands of the ministers in meeting the late Mr. Blaine. The majority was forthcoming, but there was no commercial treaty, and soon after the election it became known to the world that Sir Charles Tupper had made an unwarranted use of the name of Mr. Blaine. This time his cry is closer commercial relations with the mother country and to give large subsidies to fast steamship lines. Mr. Chamberlain's speech before the Canadian club in London shows how small is the chance

Fun at Arden.

Mr. Dawson's meeting at Arden will long be remembered. While one of Mr. Dawson's friends was speaking, Mr. Bell's representative shouted "It's a lie! It's a lie! It's a lie!" and rushed at the speaker. Mr. Dawson got in front of him and tried to calm him, but it was of no use. A couple of men rushed forward, and in a moment the row became general. The ladies left the platform and got out of the hall. One of Mr. Bell's most prominent supporters divested himself out of his coat and vest, necktie and one brace, and bounded on the platform, when he waved his arms and shouted heroically. Mr. Dawson stood his ground on the platform, vainly trying to patch up a peace. Seeing it was useless, he stepped to the front and shouted, "Let's sing 'God Save the Queen,'" and the crowd on the floor sang "God Save the Queen," while the row on the platform continued. As the anthem swelled up from four-score throats the disturbance gradually ceased from the platform, and the would-be-combatants stepped down, looking thoroughly ashamed of their conduct.

The Miss La Dell Entertainment.

The Miss La Dell entertainment in the town hall, on Monday evening, proved a highly successful affair. The hall was comfortably filled and the audience thoroughly appreciative. The Rev. W. W. Peck acted as chairman and occupied this position to the satisfaction of all. Miss La Dell is a clever and versatile elocutionist, and her various numbers were well received and called forth several hearty encores. Her rendition of the Delsarte Movements were graceful and highly appreciated. Miss Lil Hall presided at the piano, and rendered an excellent instrumental solo in her usual able manner. Mr. J. Fred. Tilley rendered two solos in grand style and won the plaudits of the audience on both occasions. Miss Butler, of Deseronto, gave a beautiful instrumental solo, which displayed her ability as a pianist to good advantage. Miss Nell Her-ring rendered two solos in a pleasing manner and was forced to respond to an enthusiastic encore. The concert was under the auspices of the Presbyterian church, and the committee in charge are to be congratulated on the tasty manner in which the hall was decorated. Mrs. A. Alexander entertained those taking part in the programme at her residence at the conclusion of the concert, and a most enjoyable time was spent.

they have of being carried out. —Harper's Weekly.

A representative of one of the largest manufacturing establishments in Canada was in town this week, and he asserts that he will not support the Tupper government. "I have been a stiff red-hot Tory all my life," he said, "but I will do all in my power to defeat the Tupper. I put the interests and welfare of the country before party." He is but one of the many who are deserting the great stretcher every day.

Mr. J. F. McAlister says that Montreal will return three Liberals on the 23rd of June, and "Joe" is an intelligent observer and knows whereof he speaks.

Well might the Conservative party say: From Sir John Macdonald and Sir John Thompson down, down, down, to Tupper. What a fall, my countrymen.

Mr. J. W. Bell thought it incumbent upon him at Sydenham last week, as a hard and fast supporter of the Tupper government, to uphold Haggart's ditch, called out of courtesy the Tay canal. "The Tay canal" said J. W. "now saves $30,000 for Canada a year." The Tay canal is a ditch running from the Rideau canal six miles to the town of Perth, the home of Hon. John Haggart. The original cost of the canal was placed at $132,660, but up to date $475,128 has been expended on it. The total cost of maintaining the canal during last season including pay for keeper, was $3,188, and the amount of revenue derived was $119.94. In 1882 the first vote was taken for the construction of this canal, and the total revenue derived from it since its construction has only amounted to $877. According to official returns the vessels using the Tay canal consisted of two tugs, one pleasure boat, two small boats, one scow and one skiff. The annual cost of maintaining, including interest on the capital invested, was about $28,000. J. W. should rise and explain.

Tuesday morning about 1 o'clock night-watchman Perry received a call to arrest a woman who was down by the falls threatening to drown her little child, a girl of about 7 years of age. When Mr. Perry arrived on the scene he recognized the woman as a well-known character in this district. She was loaded up to the neck with whiskey and in a very testy temper. The nightwatchman took her into custody and she was brought before His Worship the Mayor who gave her half-an-hour to leave town. She has not been seen since.

One of our prominent citizens accompanied a yachting party down the bay last week. The gentleman in question is fond of sailing but has a mortal aversion to either getting wet or drowned. After the party had got out in the bay the water became tempestuous and our friend thinking discretion the better part of valor fastened a life preserver about his portly frame. They are the people who know a good thing and they not only come again but send others. It costs nothing for a look, it does your eyes good to see the snaps I am offering. Drop in at
